(4) In any proceedings against an owner or master in respect of a contravention of this section, it shall be a valid defense that the contravention was due solely to deviation or delay caused by stress of weather or any cause of force majeure which neither the master, the owner, nor the charterer, if any, could have prevented or forestalled.

and reasonable precautions having been taken to prevent the grain from shifting, enters any port in Guyana so laden, the owner or master is guilty of an offence and the ship shall be deemed for the purposes of this Act to be unsafe by reason of improper loading.

(3) No offence is committed under subsection (2) where the ship would

PART XIII

SEAWORTHINESS OF SHIPS

336. In this Part "unseaworthy ship" means a ship that is by reason of the defective condition of its hull, equipment and machinery or by reason of undermanning, overloading or improper loading, unfit to proceed to sea without serious danger to human life, having regard to the nature of the service for which the ship is intended.

337. (1) Any person who sends or attempts to send any Guyana or foreign ship to sea from any port in Guyana in such an unseaworthy state that the life of any person is likely to be thereby endangered shall be guilty of an offence, unless he proves either -

(a) that he used all reasonable means to ensure that the ship was sent to sea in a seaworthy state; or
(b) that sending the ship to sea in such an unworthy state was in the circumstances reasonable and justifiable.

(2) Any master of a ship, Guyana or foreign, who knowingly takes such ship to sea from any port in Guyana in such an unworthy state that the life of any person is likely to be thereby endangered, shall be guilty of an offence, unless he proves that taking the ship to sea in such an unworthy state was in the circumstance reasonable and justified.

338. (1) In every contract of service express or implied, between the owner of a ship and the master or any seaman thereof, or in any instrument of apprenticeship whereby any person is bound to serve on board ship, there shall be implied, notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary, an obligation on the owner of the ship that the owner of the ship and the master and every agent charged with the loading of the ship, or the preparing of the ship to sea, or the sending of the ship to sea, shall use all reasonable means to ensure the seaworthiness of the ship at the time when the voyage commences and to keep the ship in a seaworthy condition during the voyage.

(2) Nothing in this section shall subject the owner of a ship to any liability by reason of the ship being sent to sea in an unworthy state where, owing to special circumstance, the sending of the ship to sea in such a state was reasonable and justified.

339. (1) Where, whether on a complaint or representation made to him or otherwise, the Director or a surveyor has reason to believe that any Guyana ship, or any foreign ship at a port in Guyana, is an unworthy ship, he shall, if the complaint or representation is made in sufficient time before the sailing of the ship, ascertain whether or not the ship ought not to be detained.

(2) Where the Director or surveyor is satisfied that the ship is an unworthy ship, he may-

(a) in the case of any ship, cause the ship to be detained; and
(b) in the case of a Guyana ship, cause its Safety Certificates to be suspended, until he is satisfied that the ship is fit to proceed to sea.
(3) Where the ship is detained pursuant to subsection (2), the Director may adopt any measure or means he thinks suitable or necessary to prevent the ship from sailing while it is an unworthy ship.

(4) Where a foreign ship has been detained under this section, a consular officer for the country to which the ship belongs shall be informed forthwith.

(8) Any complaint in respect of the seaworthiness of a ship shall be in writing, stating the name and address of the complainant, and shall be given to the owner or master of the ship if action is taken under this section.

340. (1) If it appears that there was no reasonable and probable cause, by reason of the condition of a ship or the act or default of the owner thereof, for the detention under this Part of a ship as an unseaworthy ship, the Government shall be liable to pay to the owner of the ship -

(a) his costs of and incidental to the detention and survey of the ship, and
(b) compensation for any loss or damage sustained by him by reason of the detention or survey.

(2) If a ship is detained under this Act, and the ship was at the time of such detention unseaworthy, the owner of the ship shall be liable to pay to the Government the costs of and incidental to the detention and survey of the ship; and such costs shall, without prejudice to any other remedy, be recoverable in the same manner as salvage.

341. (1) Where a complaint is made to the Director, a marine officer or a surveyor, that a Guyana ship is unseaworthy, such officer may require the complainant to give security to the satisfaction of such officer, for any costs and compensation which he may become liable to pay as mentioned in subsection (3).

(2) The security referred to in subsection (1) shall not be required where the complaint relating to a ship -

(a) is made by one-fourth, being not less than three of the seamen belonging to the ship; and
(b) is not in the opinion of the Director, marine officer or surveyor, as the case may be, frivolous or vexatious, but in such case the Director, marine officer or surveyor, if the complaint is made in sufficient time before the sailing of the ship, take proper steps for ascertaining whether the ship ought to be detained.

(3) Where a ship is detained in consequence of any complaint under subsection (1), and the circumstances are such that the Government is liable under section 340 to pay to the owner of the ship any cost or compensation, the complainant shall be liable to pay to the Government all such cost and compensation as the Government incurs or is liable to pay in respect of the detention and survey of the ship.
